TUESDAY, JUNE 14, 1904.

The Times-Dispatch takes the full Associated Press Service, the London Times War Service and the Hearst News General News Service and has its own correspondents throughout Virginia and North Carolina and in the leading cities of the country.

If you go to the mountains, seashore or country, have The Times-Dispatch go with you.

City subscribers before leaving the city during the summer should notify their carrier or this office (Phone 38). If you write, give both out-of-town and city addresses.

To-day's Election.

A little while ago we had an interesting Democratic primary election in Richmond to nominate the candidate for Mayor and candidates for the Council and Board of Aldermen.

But he it remembered, fellow Democrats of Richmond, that our candidates have not yet been elected. The regular election will be held to-day and our candidate for Mayor has two opponents in the field.

Let us take nothing for granted. It is the duty of every registered Democratic voter to go to the polls to-day and vote the straight Democratic ticket. It would be a disgrace to the Democratic party and a public misfortune for us to allow through carelessness or neglect our candidate for Mayor to be defeated.

Every Democrat who voted in the primary is under a solemn obligation to go to the polls to-day and vote for McCarthy for Mayor and for the Democratic candidates for the Council and Board of Aldermen. It will not do for any Democrat to say that our candidates can be elected without his vote. If every Democrat should take that narrow view, McCarthy would be defeated.

Let every Democrat do his duty and vote.

Blunders of the Rich.

According to newspaper reports, Mr. Reginald C. Vanderbilt has been occupying his time recently in running around the country in an automobile, dodging officers of the law who were trying to serve him with a witness subpoena.

Time and again similar stories about other rich men in New York have been published. They will neither serve as a witness nor as a juror if by any hook or crook they can evade this duty. But in the name of Democracy, why should these men be exempt? Why are they not as much bound to respond to the demands of the law as poorer people are bound? Do they belong to an aristocracy of exclusive privileges and of exemptions?

It is a bad blunder for the rich men to try to shirk their civic duties. It creates prejudice against them. They may not care for that, but it is a matter of serious care to them whether or not the law is upheld. Without law their vast property interests would be worth nothing. The more the people respect the law, the better it will be for property owners, and if for no higher and nobler reason, it is clearly in the material interest of the rich that law and order shall prevail, and it is therefore in their interest to discharge their civic duties with faithfulness and with willingness and to respond cheerfully to the demands of the State authorities.

The rich man who never votes, who shirks jury service and witness service, who neglects all of his civic duties, has no right to complain when the government does not give him the protection which he thinks he should have.

Play and Instruction.

Now that Richmond is determined to have public playgrounds, it is opportune to mention that the city of Louisville uses its playgrounds as a means of teaching the children valuable lessons in the art of municipal government. The scheme is outlined by Mr. Arthur Leland, formerly of that city, in an article published in "Charities" of June 4th.

He says that although Louisville has many vacant spaces for playgrounds, rather indisposed to physical activity, and it was found necessary to offer special inducements in the way of exciting athletic competition in order to arouse interest. In each playground several teams were formed to compete with each other. The playground winning the most points received the championship banner. To carry this on, the playgrounds were organized into a playground athletic union, the union having entire control of inter-playground athletics, and being governed by a board of control, made up of two representatives of the children of each playground and two representatives of the Recreation League.

Each playground is organized into a miniature city, having most of the important provisions of the city government in rudimentary form. At the outset two parties were brought together in each playground, and these were designated by the names of the candidates for Mayor. The regular attendances were registered, only those over eight were entered on the polling list, and primaries were forthwith held. Mr. Leland says that these primaries were wild and exciting, and that the machine had little to say in the matter, for the voters stampeded to the popular girls and boys.

It may be said here, by way of parenthesis, that this shows that the primary is as popular with juvenile voters as with their elders.

Each playground elects its mayor, who appoints all the minor officers. The juveniles choose also a police judge, a board of aldermen, made up of girls, and a council, made up of boys, which elect their own officers and meet twice each week for the enactment of playground laws. The elections have grown in interest, and the city clerk is kept busy recording the ordinances which are passed.

We have not the space to go into detail, but enough has been said to show in a general way the operation of the plan. It is a first-rate idea, and it is to be hoped that when Richmond has playgrounds in all parts of the city a similar scheme will be adopted and put into practice. In a republican form of government the children should be brought up in such a way as to create in them an interest in public affairs, and nothing stimulates interest like knowledge and practice.

A Happy Hostage.

The London Daily Mail of yesterday published a letter alleged to have been written to A. J. Dawson, the novelist and traveler, by Don Perdicaris, the American citizen who is now held as a hostage by Raisoul, the Moroccan bandit.

It appears from this letter that while Mr. Perdicaris suffered some inconvenience and great mental anxiety during his journey to the land of Raisoul, since reaching his destination he has been having a royal time. He and his companion, according to this letter, are living in a comfortable tent, and are receiving not only kind treatment, but the distinguished consideration of Raisoul and his dignitaries. Mr. Perdicaris declares that Raisoul is one of the most interesting and kindly-hearted native gentlemen he has been his good fortune to have known, and he has quite lost his heart with the bandit. He says, moreover, that Raisoul's chief object is to secure the release of members of his own kabile, who were unjustly entrapped by the Bashaw of Tangier, a former friend and foster brother. "The ransom demanded," adds Mr. Perdicaris, "is not so much the price of our release as the demand for the recouping of the losses inflicted by order of the same Bashaw, for whom Raisoul claims payment."

While not stating it in so many words, the inference is irresistible that Mr. Perdicaris would be very willing to remain in captivity during the hot season and so save the expense of his summer outing.

Pertinent Inquiries.
The report of the experts shows that the affairs of the late treasurer of Henrico county are in an ugly mess, and the question forces itself upon the inquiring taxpayers, why was not this state of things discovered before? Why was it necessary to wait until the treasurer had retired from office before an investigation of his books was made? It is remarkable, indeed, that the State should be so careless of its interests and the interests of the taxpayers. If the treasurer's books had been regularly inspected from year to year, this disgrace had never been. Both he and the county would have been saved.

Another inquiry: Who knows but what the books of other county treasurers are in the same muddle? Who can stand up and say for certain that every treasurer in the State of Virginia is keeping his accounts correctly and honestly? If these things may be at the courthouse of Henrico, which is almost within the shadow of the State Capitol, what reason is there to believe that affairs are any better in counties which are remote? Let the taxpayers take these questions to heart.

In the Fifth Maryland District three men named Mudd are running for Congress, and they say it is a very quiet campaign, too, with no mud slinging so far, but at least two will be "slung" on election day.

It is claimed that Mr. Knox, of Pennsylvania, can knock the trusts much harder from the senate chamber than from the Attorney-General's office. Perhaps so, but will he?

In about a week's time now the graduates of the country will have solved all the problems, and the statesmen can give the balance of their time this year to politics.

Possibly holiday excursionists will not need an overcoat on the Fourth of July, but we wouldn't like to swear to anything about the weather.

The Norfolk political troubles, when settled at one point, break out afresh at another, and they have now just reached a new breaking out point.

This is actually election day, and in the rush of other matters of moment half the people had forgotten all about it.

Let us hope that when Parker does decide to talk he will not hurt himself too much making up for lost time.

Trend of Thought
In Dixie Land

Atlanta Constitution: The Democratic party will be characterized by Bryan in a charming effort at St. Louis, but it would hate to see him do a Catiline stunt.

Nashville American: Porto Rico Democrats Hearest. And Willie brought on the war which set the island free. How ungrateful to Willie.

Chattanooga Times: The Texas populists—what few of them are left—have met and endorsed the Hon. Tom Watson as their candidate for President. Mr. Watson will probably not accept, having a very much better "bird in hand," but all the same he decided not to encourage the hope that the populist leaders aren't looking for any assistance this year from the Democratic Convention.

Houston Chronicle: H. P. Cummings, a colored lawyer, of Baltimore, has been selected by the Democratic party for nomination by the Democratic party for any other I. m. c. will be given a Cabinet position or the collectorship of the port in any Northern city.

Birmingham Ledger: The beautiful St. Louis Exposition stamps are teaching the people of Alabama the value of the cent won the greatest territory our country possesses, and did it without bloodshed, by brains and diplomacy. We got what we paid for, and it is worth several times what we gave for it. Great was Jefferson.

North Carolina Sentiment.

The Winston-Salem Sentinel says: These people who persist in criticising Judge Payne because of his election to have lost sight of the fact that it is a superfluity of talk that has caused the Democratic party so much trouble during the last few years.

The Wilmington Messenger asks: "How does Vilas suit as a running mate for Judge Parker?" and then says:

"He is wonderfully popular with the voters of the Northwestern section. He would win the support of the voters of Cannon or Fairbanks. It is to be a Northern man we know no better one to nominate than this. We have no power and Vilas would make a winning team."

The Record-Tribune has this editorial paragraph: "The 'Big Four' from Virginia has been named. They are Senators Daniel and Martin, Governor Montague, and Mr. Bixen. There are three men in that four who have been spoken of for the nomination for the Vice-Presidency; who can beat Virginia?"

With a Comment or Two.

The battle in the Kentucky Democratic convention will be mainly for the control of the State organization. Secondly, the question of the presidential nomination will be considered. Nashville Banner.

That's just the way it was in the Virginia convention, and all the other State pow-wows, as for that matter.

Heart captured the Hawaiian delegation to St. Louis. There's nothing like developing a colonial policy as a theory. Birmingham News.

Sometimes it pays to stop at a theory before reaching a conclusion. In spite of the conditions in Utah there are a great many more men than women in the United States. A noticeable exception is with South Carolina negroes, who are a case in point. Columbia State.

A Few Foreign Facts.

There are 1,023 typesetting machines used by 318 firms, which are scattered throughout Germany, but it is believed that there are more in use in these machines in use in Germany.

The smallest coin in the world having a genuine circulation is probably the Maltese "grain," a tiny fragment of bronze used by the Maltese, and which is used as a coin in the Maltese colony.

The London Express learns that "it is proposed in America that the prefix 'Mr.' should be abolished by act of Congress. Every man should be known by his trade or profession, as 'Draper Jones' or 'Attorney Smith.'"

The Prince of Wales, through the death of the Duke of Cornwall, comes into possession of many lands belonging to the Duchy of Cornwall. These were granted forty or fifty years ago on the "three lives system," or for the term of the survivor of three lives. The late Duke was the third surviving life in many of the leases, and the Prince of Wales, as Duke of Cornwall, has valuable property restored to him.

Short Fish Story.

The total catch of food fishes in the United States and Alaska, as shown by the last census, was 1,733,314,324 pounds, valued at $45,531,185. The number of men employed was 274,055 and the capital invested was $22,851,618. The salmon catch of the United States in 1903 was valued at $4,500,000, an amount more than four times as great as the entire silver output of the United States in 1903.

The salmon output of Alaska for 1903 is valued at $10,000,000, which exceeds by more than $2,500,000 the value of the Alaska coal and oil and it adds to the salmon the value of the oil, halibut and other fisheries of Alaska, the total greatly exceeds all the other resources of Alaska combined.

BIG APPEAL CASE.

Judge Keith Grants Appeal in Noted Drewry's Bluff Case.

Judge James Keith, president of the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia, has granted an appeal and supersedeas of Ferdinand Beach, John C. Short and others vs. James Bellwood and W. L. Loyal and others, an appeal from the Land and Equity Court of the city of Richmond in a case involving title to the tract of land widely known as the Drewry's Bluff tract, in Chesterfield county. The case was tried three or four years ago and the appeal has just been granted. The tract of land is 425 acres in area. The appellants, Dr. Beach and John C. Short, are represented by Messrs. Stern and Stern, of this city, and Captain James Parker, a widely known attorney, who was associated with Hon. Isidor Rayner as counsel for Admiral Selkley before the naval court of inquiry two years ago. The object of the bill is to set aside a deed and an agreement by which James Bellwood and wife conveyed to Dr. Ferdinand Beach the property in question.

Popular Tee-Dee Outings Talk of the Town Yesterday.

CONDITIONS VERY SIMPLE

The Path to Success a Plain One—Unsurpassed Hotels.

Intense interest has already been aroused in every circle by the announcement of the inauguration of the famous Tee-Dee outing contest, which proved of such absorbing interest to hundreds last year, and afforded forty-two persons a delightful outing at an elegant hotel, absolutely free of all expense. The contest this year promises to be even more interesting and exciting than last year, and as an evidence of this it may be stated that already almost every paper of Sunday, with the first coupon therein, has been eagerly sought. Already thousands of votes have been secured, and the total promises to largely exceed that of last year. The Tee-Dee outings of 1903 are an absolute and eloquent guarantee of the good faith of the paper and of the pleasure of such an outing, as those who enjoyed them will cheerfully and enthusiastically testify. It may be predicted in advance that those who were fortunate enough to win last year will spare no effort to again capture one of these splendid prizes. They are all the more desirable because they cost the winner not one cent.

This summer fourteen couples and one chaperone to each, a total of forty-two persons will be the beneficiaries of the offer. It's a fair race, and to those who start early it is an even one. The Tee-Dee outings are a most desirable and profitable trip—that is to say, first choice of place or time, for all the fourteen couples will win a trip just as good as the others. And the prizes selected all stand so high as resorts that it's a toss-up as to which is preferable.

ELEVEN HOTELS.

Here are the eleven hotels, choice of which will be given the winner in the contest, second choice to the runner-up. The Tee-Dee outings are a most desirable and profitable trip—that is to say, first choice of place or time, for all the fourteen couples will win a trip just as good as the others. And the prizes selected all stand so high as resorts that it's a toss-up as to which is preferable.

Coupons are printed each day, each one bearing a date one week ahead. Each coupon must be filled in with the name of two persons, each couple being allowed to select its chaperone. Contestants will select an associate who is agreeable to the contest, and the race will be on. The pace-maker does not always win a race, but it is not always the case that the runner-up does not have to catch up with some couple who started earlier. The date on the coupons is significant. It means that no vote will be counted which is not received prior to the date on the coupon.

Voting certificates will be issued by the paper, based on the money paid in for subscriptions to the paper. These certificates will count for half as many votes as there are coupons in the amount paid in subscriptions. Besides being entitled to so many votes on the amount paid for subscription, the subscriber is entitled to cut out the coupons and get as many more votes, so that really persons subscribing for a month or six months, or a year set a vote for every penny paid, provided they save and send in the coupons.

PORTRAIT OF JUDGE LAMB

Presented to the Chancery Court

by Mr. J. R. V. Daniel.

A handsome portrait of Judge James C. Lamb was presented to the Chancery Court yesterday. The presentation was made by Mr. J. R. V. Daniel in a brief speech in which he referred to the late Judge in the most appropriate and touching language.

Judge Grinnan accepted the portrait in equally as graceful remarks. There was a large attendance of members of the bar, each of whom expressed pleasure at the rich things said about Judge Lamb, who was beloved and honored by all who came in touch with him in his private and official career.

The portrait was from the brush of Miss Williams.

Elect a Chief To-morrow.

The Board of Police Commissioners will meet to-morrow afternoon at 5 o'clock to inspect the department. After inspecting the board will meet at the headquarters to elect a successor to Major Howard whose resignation takes effect on July 1st.

Besides the election of a chief, thirty-two other members of the force will be up for re-election.

State Firemen's Association.

The Virginia State Firemen's Association will hold its eighteenth annual convention at the Hotel Richmond, in Richmond, Va., on August 17th, 18th and 19th.

The committee which has the affair in charge has sent out invitations to the fire companies in the State and the District of Columbia.

The association promises to be an enjoyable one.

SISTER'S TRICK.

But All Came Out Right. How a sister played a trick that brought rosy cheeks to a coffee fiend is an interesting story.

"I was a coffee fiend—a trembling, nervous, physical wreck, yet clinging to the poison that stole away my strength because for a fleeting moment it stimulated my weakened powers. I mocked at Postum and would have none of it. 'One day my sister, Mrs. J. S. Showalter, substituted a cup of crisp hot Postum for my morning cup of coffee, but did not tell me what it was. I noticed the richness of it, and remarked that the coffee tasted fine, but my sister, for fear I might not take any more, said: 'She kept the secret and kept giving me Postum instead of coffee until I grew stronger, more tireless, got a better color in my sallow cheeks and a clearness in my eyes, she told me of the health-giving, nerve-strengthening life-giver she had given me in place of my morning coffee. From that time I became a devotee of Postum, and no words can do justice to the good this cereal drink can do for me. I will try to tell it for only after having used it can one be convinced of its merits.' Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich."

Ten days later Showalter's power to rebuild what coffee had destroyed, proved a reason.
